

Beverley Patwell

Beverley Patwell, MA, CHRA, President of Patwell Consulting Inc., is a consultant, lecturer, author and business coach. An international organizational development practitioner with over 20 years of experience, Beverley develops and implements organizational development and change management solutions that meet business needs both in private and public sector organizations.

Her impressive client roster includes:

Ogilvy Renault	Meloche Monnex
VIA Rail	City of Ottawa
McGill University	Cryocath Technologies
Proceco	Soft Image
Molson Inc.	Mitel Corporation
Costco	Hanes Brand Inc.
United Nations	York Support Services Network
Transcontinental Media	Montreal Chamber Orchestra
IATA	Lupus Canada.
Province of Ontario Ministry of Public Safety and Security: Correctional Services

Beverley, co-author of the book Triple Impact Coaching: Use of Self in the Coaching Process (2006), lectures at the McGill International Executive Institute, and works with Dr. Henry Mintzberg in the Advanced Leadership Program. She teaches two public courses, Leading Change and Coaching and Mentoring, which are offered in the Leadership Development Program of the Irish Institute of Directors Program. Beverley also consults with clients of the institute in the areas of coaching, organizational development, team building and change management.

Beverley is a member of the Ordre des conseillers en ressources humaines et en relations industrielles agréés du Québec (OHRI), an adjunct faculty member of American University's Master's Program with National Training Laboratories (NTL) and a coach with the Niagara Institute. She is also a guest lecturer with American University's Master of Science in Organizational Development where she teaches Consultation Skills in a Global Environment.

A graduate of Concordia University, Beverley has a Master of Arts Degree in Human Systems Intervention. She has taught at Concordia and currently mentors students in the MA Human Systems Intervention Program at the university.

Beverley is a past member of the Board of Directors and currently a member of the advisory board for La Passerelle, a Montreal based not-for-profit organization that helps people above the age of 40 find employment.

Prior to her consulting career, Beverley worked with Bombardier Aerospace as the Director of the Aerospace Enterprise Resource Planning Change Management Program and the Manager of Global Organizational Development.
